COURSE INTRODUCTION / OVERVIEW:

This comprehensive course provides a deep dive into the critical business functions of customer retention and loyalty program management. In today's competitive marketplace, acquiring new customers can be significantly more expensive than retaining existing ones. Therefore, mastering the art and science of customer loyalty is no longer a luxury but a strategic imperative for sustainable growth. This program moves beyond theoretical concepts to deliver actionable frameworks and data-driven strategies. We will explore the psychological drivers of loyalty, drawing on insights from behavioral economics and the foundational work of experts like Frederick Reichheld, whose research on the Net Promoter Score is detailed in his book "The Ultimate Question 2.0". Participants will learn to design, implement, and measure high-impact loyalty initiatives that foster genuine customer engagement and advocacy.
