Course Introduction / Overview:

In today's saturated digital landscape, traditional marketing no longer captures audience attention. The paradigm has shifted towards creating value, building relationships, and establishing authority through strategic content. This course delves into the art and science of strategic content marketing and narrative development, transforming how organizations communicate. We will explore the foundational principles articulated by experts like Robert McKee, author of the seminal work "Story: Substance, Structure, Style, and the Principles of Screenwriting," and adapt them for the corporate world. This program moves beyond basic content creation to focus on building a cohesive brand narrative that resonates deeply with target audiences, fostering loyalty and driving business growth. Participants will learn to architect a comprehensive content strategy, from initial research and persona development to crafting compelling stories across multiple platforms.
